August 23, 2012

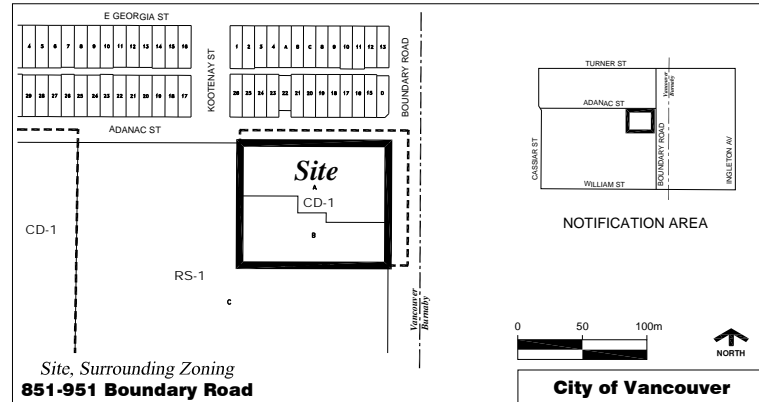

Merrick Architecture - Borowski Sakumoto Fligg Ltd. has applied to the City of Vancouver to amend the existing CD-1 (300), By-law No. 7158 for 851-951 Boundary Road. The proposal includes adding "multiple dwelling" as a permitted use, in order to re-purpose the existing "Taylor Manor" heritage building into 56 supportive housing units. The renovation, including a 4-storey addition on the west side, will provide self-contained apartment units with tenant amenity spaces, as well as staff office space. The proposed total density on the site would be 0.76 FSR (which includes the existing Adanac Lodge) and the total height would be limited to four storeys.
